By mid-March 2010, every household will receive a short 10 question form like the one pictured. There are 10 questions for the primary person filling out the Census and an additional 7 questions for each additional person(s) living within the household.

In the sample you will note the questionnaire asks for gender, age, race, relationship and whether you own or rent your home. No specific, personal information is requested such as financial information or legal status. Confidentiality is protected by law (Title 13, U.S. Code, Section 9).

Responses to the 2010 Census questionnaire are required by the U.S. Constitution (Article I, Section 2). A second form will be mailed to households that do not respond the initial questionnaire, and those households that still do not respond will be called or visited by a Census worker. (These Census workers can be identified by a census badge and bag.)
